Learn to fight like Jack Bauer & fire gadgets like James Bond

You have the opportunity to have an exclusive insider experience at the legendary Pinewood Studios the home of the James Bond movies.

Learn to fight like Jack Bauer, fire gadgets like James Bond, and escape near death disasters like Arnie.

Your day is hosted by ex SAS and SBS Operatives who will train you in the art of unarmed combat and stuntman activity.

After which you will receive a tour of Pinewood Studios, that will include:

The world famous 007 stage that was built in 1976 for the Bond movie The Spy Who Loved Me. Since then it has housed hundreds of sets for numerous productions. Previously housing filming for such sets as the Cambodian Temples for Lara Croft Tomb Raider, The Hanging Gardens of Babylon for Alexander, The Louvre Gallery for The Da Vinci Code and The Chocolate River Room for Charlie and the Chocolate Factory to name but a few.

The Underwater Stage is Europe's first studio-based, permanently filled, underwater filming stage and The Exterior Tank at Pinewood Studios, known as the Paddock Tank, has a huge blue screen that has to be seen to be believed. The tank is used for model units and live action sequences. The inner tank allows the depth needed for stunts or complex set construction within the tank. Films that have used these facilities are, Casino Royale, King Arthur, K-19: The Widomaker, Enigma and The World is not Enough.

When your tour has finished you will then meet the weapons specialists to the stars, Joss Wenkler. Joss will show you the actual guns that have been held by the stars, including guns used in Sahara, guns held by Angelina Jolie in Tomb Raider and various weapons used in the making of the James Bond movies, held by Daniel Craig, Pierce Brosnan and Timothy Dalton. You will have the opportunity to hold the guns and also witness the firing of several blanks!

Following the weapons specialist you will have a light lunch / dinner with your tutors for the day, this is an opportunity for an informal Q & A.

Samples of a selection of films that have been filmed at Pinewood include: The Bourne Ultimatum, Sweeney Todd, Children of Men, Nanny McPhee, Planet of the Apes, Eyes Wide Shut, Patriot Games, Clash of the Titans, Who Dares Wins and many more from 1932 until the present day!
